Everyone's a Local in Virginia City, Nevada

The mining town welcomes everyone to share in its history, unique shops and attractions

VIRGINIA CITY, Nev. (July 6, 2020) – The historic mining town of Virginia City, Nevada, is welcoming visitors both near and far as their own with the added bonus of special discounts. The #EveryoneIsALocal campaign invites patrons to stroll the wooden board sidewalks, take in the living history of the once booming town and experience the museums, attractions and tours available – all in a safe and responsible manner that follows the guidelines outlined by the state of Nevada while being able to receive discounts and offers.

In a town where history run deep, the inviting atmosphere and attitude of the townspeople welcome clientele with a little local spirit.

“As a place where people come to get a fill of history and experience a little rural life, we want to be a place where everyone feels welcome,” Deny Dotson, Director of Tourism for Virginia City Tourism Commission, said. “We hope guests from Reno, Sparks, Carson, Dayton and other communities come up for a visit, just like our visitors from several hours away. We offer a break from the chaos of everyday life and an opportunity to immerse in our town – be it a treat from one of our sweet shops, an old-time photo or mine or train excursion. It’s good for all of us to take a break. We believe everyone is a local.”

It’s easy to participate in the #EveryoneIsALocal campaign. Simply purchase an attraction or museum pass at the Visitors Center, located at 86 South C Street, and receive a “Everyone Is A Local” sticker. Showing the sticker to local merchants warrants discounts and specials at participating businesses around town.

Virginia City encourages locals and visitors to follow safety protocols including social distancing, cleanliness at the highest standards including the addition of hand sanitizing stations throughout town and wearing face masks.
